Consumer Notes:

Although we write this with a few days to go before the big "00" turnover, we're glad that your lights stayed on, that society as we know it will stayed together. We've broken records supplying product to people all over the US this past year and we fully expect demand to continue increasing for the foreseeable future. Overall, January (like December) seems to be pretty light in terms of new video product but there are at least TWO titles that we're really glad to see back: Vampire Hunter D and Castle of Cagliostro (in a new subtitled and DVD form, too)! Interesting new products also include Garzey's Wing (set in the same universe as Aura Battler Dunbine) and Nazca. We're also sure that the Urotsuki Doji perfect collection DVD will do really well in the marketplace, but if what's happening with everyone else also happens with this, don't be too surprised if it slips this month and into the next. The Evangelion 1 DVD is supposed to ship this month for sure (all our sources say that it will ship this time around)!
